

Christmas around the World

Amazing Fact

It has become a very popular custom in Japan to eat at KFC for Christmas dinner, thanks to a successful series of adverts 40 years ago. The popularity in some stores means that customers need to place their Christmas orders up to two months in advance.

Challenge

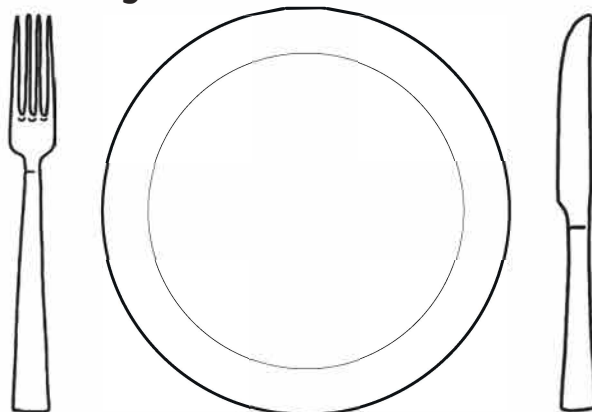

Use the Internet or non-fiction books to learn about other Christmas traditions around the world. Record your notes and findings in the writing frames below.

Christmas in _____

The flag looks like...

You might eat...

How you would say Merry Christmas...

You might see...

Holiday Traditions

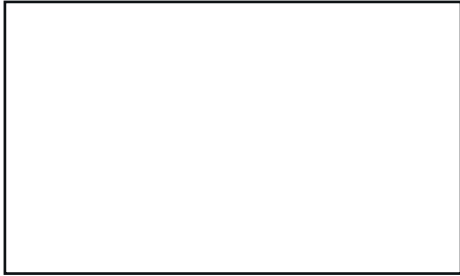

You could also try to find out:

- how Christmas is celebrated in Japan;
- about other Christmas customs which may be different to those in your country;
- which advertising campaigns have been most successful in promoting products.

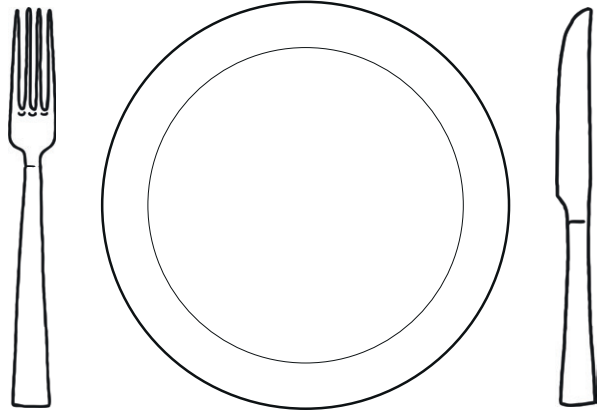

Christmas around the World

Christmas in _____

The flag looks like...

You might eat...

How you would say Merry Christmas...

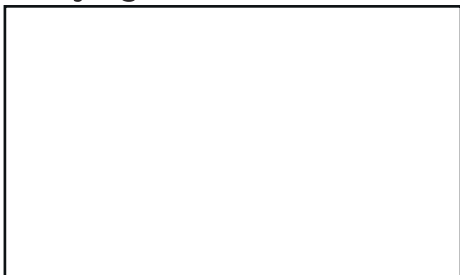

You might see...

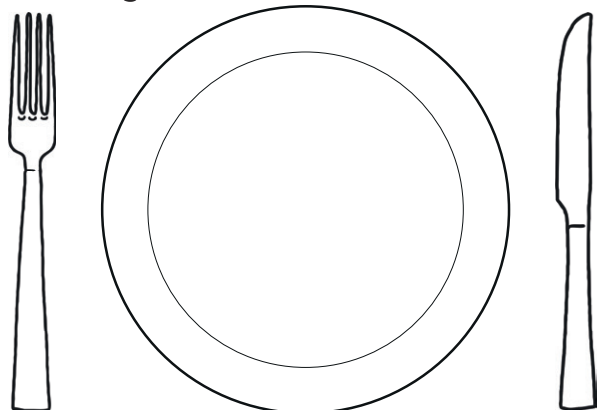

Holiday Traditions

Christmas in _____

The flag looks like...

You might eat...

How you would say Merry Christmas...

You might see...

Holiday Traditions
